The signer checks every amount and the signature covers all inputs before the transaction is broadcast to the whole network.